

Busy Days These

in a great Furniture Store like this—busier every day. This magnificent stock of

Parlor Suites, Bedroom Suites, Library Suites, Tables, Curtains, Draperies, Carpets, Etc., Etc.,

is acting like a powerful magnet on those who have Furniture wants to fill.

Are you one of these? Then come!

Wash. B. Williams, 7th and D Streets.

Mer's Fall Clothing Opening at the New York Clothing House,

311 Seventh St. N. W.

HIS INJURIES NOT FATAL

Would-Be Suicide Frank Owens Will Probably Recover.

Grief at the Death of Two Brothers Caused Him to Attempt His Own Life.

Frank Owens, the Treasury Department messenger, who last evening attempted to commit suicide, is resting easy today, and will in all probability recover from his self-inflicted injury.

Grief at the recent loss of two young brothers preyed on his mind and was the cause of the act. One of them was William Owens, the young messenger in the Census office, who was the first victim of smallpox when that disease broke out here a little less than a year ago.

Young Owens was taken from his home by the disease, and he died in the hospital, and his brother, Robert, contracted a cold while visiting his brother's grave, and died of it on the 27th instant.

Since the death of his second brother Frank had given himself up entirely to grief, and his mother and sisters had been unable to divert his mind from the loss. He insisted that the remains should be interred here, and he was a constant visitor to the cemetery since the funeral. His mother is elderly, and he has not realized how he was affected, but his sisters had been seriously alarmed for his health ever since his brother's death.

Accompanied by one of his sisters, he visited the cemetery Sunday afternoon, and when he returned he seemed unusually quiet and sad.

Yesterday evening shortly before 6 o'clock he entered his room, and while his mother and sisters were sitting, and after remaining a short time, he went to his room, and he was found by his mother and sisters when he was going out, passed through a door into an adjoining room.

A few minutes later the report of the revolver rang through the house, and his sisters rushing into the room found him lying on the floor in a pool of blood. The smoking revolver was still in his hand.

Policemen, McDonald and Jett, of the Eighth precinct, were in the street near the house, and also heard the report. They ran in and assisted in removing the body to the hospital, and then summoned the patrol wagon.

At the hospital an examination showed that the bullet had entered the side of the head near the ear, and had penetrated only a scalp wound. The injury is likely to prove serious.

Death of Henry M. Pearson. Henry M. Pearson, for several years a bookkeeper in the Second National Bank, died yesterday at his residence, No. 218 N street northwest. He was a native of this city, 30 years old, and had for many years been suffering from consumption. The funeral services will occur to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and he is in charge of the service to which order Mr. Pearson belonged.

Phillip Young's Pitiful Story. Phillip W. Young, 20 years of age, was brought to the Emergency Hospital yesterday afternoon by the police in a very serious condition, due to exposure to the weather. The patient told a pitiful story of having been discharged from a canal boat several days ago, and on account of his inability to secure employment, being compelled to sleep on the bare ground ever since.

Policeman Fingles Resigns. Policeman F. J. Fingles, of the Second precinct, sent in his resignation yesterday, to take effect immediately. Mr. Fingles has been on the force about a year and has an excellent record. Recently, however, his health has not been good, and his resignation is due to that. He will return to his old business of plumbing.

RESUMES ITS SESSIONS

Georgetown University Medical School Publicly Opened.

Addresses by Surgeon General Sternberg and President J. H. Havens Richards—Faculty Announced.

The medical department of Georgetown University resumed its sessions this morning under the new regulations, with a four years' course and annual sessions of seven months. In accordance with the new provisions of the trustees, there will be no division of medical sessions.

The night sessions will, however, be continued for those who entered upon their studies until those who entered that have divided the department of the college by the trustees was observed last night with appropriate ceremonies.

The four-year medical course last night was an address delivered by Dr. Sternberg, surgeon general of the United States Army. This was preceded by a brief and interesting sketch of the department of the college by Rev. J. H. Havens Richards, president.

On the rostrum were Dr. Richards, Dr. Sternberg, Right Rev. Bishop Keane, of the Catholic Church; Dr. S. M. Barnett, Dr. Magruder, Dr. Stafford, Dr. Johnson, W. H. Hawkes, Dr. Fry, Dr. Siles, Dr. Woodward, health officer of the District; Dr. Adams, Col. John Johnston, and a number of public buildings and grounds; Dr. Kleinschmidt, and others.

Dr. Richards' address dealt with the successful desire of the college to keep up with the advance of medical science at home and abroad. He sketched rapidly and succinctly the various stages of progress taken by the medical department since 1851, giving examples of the widening tendency, and then touched on the recent departure in favor of a day school as the only means for adequate education in this science.

Dr. Sternberg was then introduced by Dr. Richards. Dr. Sternberg opened his address by an endorsement of the day school, and in favor of men entering upon the study of medicine who had some good groundwork of an English education.

He argued that the best results could be obtained by study during the early part of the day and before a student was jaded by previous work, such as that done in the preparatory school. He favored the training of the class of students by stiffening the quality of the entrance examinations, and expressed the opinion that what was needed was the high school education and some knowledge of Latin. He spoke favorably of the four years' course and of the advantages of the department which was instituted by Georgetown College.

Announcements were then made of the chairs and their assistants by Dr. Magruder after which the faculty was announced.

Among the announcements were Dr. Ernest La Place, for brain surgery; Dr. Steiner, on clinical surgery; Dr. De Larue, on minor surgery; Dr. S. M. Barnett, on hygiene; Dr. S. S. Adams, a new chair on anatomy and child birth; Dr. T. M. Vincent, on clinical medicine; Dr. H. M. Smith, on anatomy; Dr. Gibbs, assistant in pathology.

The students will have the privilege of practical instruction at Emergency and Dispensary, and in the laboratory and dissections. The first lecture of the course in the day school was delivered this morning at 9 o'clock by Dr. Baker.

TURN VERNER SMOKER.

Opened the Season With Athletics, Music and Dancing.

The Columbia Turn Verein opened its social and athletic indoor season last night with a big smoker and hop.

The entertainment began with gymnastic and acrobatic features, under the direction of John Becker, physical instructor of the Verein, and the work of those who took part demonstrated the thorough manner in which their training was given, and the difficult movements on horizontal and parallel bars and German horse and flying rings, were loudly applauded by the large audience.

Among those who took part in the gymnastics were: S. Wiestler, L. C. Ludwig, Max Kahler, F. A. Eckstein, Ed. Wagner, Ernst Schroter, Max Schmidt and L. Siemens.

After the class work individual turns were done by Prof. Becker, Kahler and Wiestler.

At the conclusion of the exercises in the gymnasium, the company repaired to the dancing floor and indulged in an informal hop until a late hour. The music was furnished by a volunteer orchestra from among the friends of the Verein and consisted of Mrs. Naecker, Miss Pauline Eisman, Fred. Naecker and Master Carl Hoffman.

An enjoyable collation was served during the evening.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Havens Richards, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hawkes, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Havens Richards, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Hawkes, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Vincent.

PATENT CASE DECISION.

Court of Appeals Affirms the Acting Commissioner.

The court of appeals yesterday afternoon handed down a decision in the case of Joseph E. Porter against William Louder, carried to the court from a decision of the Acting Commissioner of Patents. The ruling of the commissioner was sustained.

The subject matter of the issue was an improvement in bay carrier tracks. Interferences in the inventions of the two parties to the suit were the cause of controversy. The examiner of inventions first considered the matter, and then decided adversely to Porter. On appeal the examiner in chief reversed the former ruling. A further appeal to the assistant Commissioner of Patents resulted in an affirmation of the ruling of the examiner of inventions.

Chief Justice Alvey delivered the opinion of the court.

BANQUETED MISS MADIE.

Chief Moore and Weather Bureau Men Honored at the Old Association.

Mr. Alexander G. McAdie, a local official forecaster for the Weather Bureau, who has been transferred elsewhere, was tendered a banquet last evening at Freund's by his associates, the officials and employees of the Weather Bureau.

Mr. A. J. Henry officiated as toastmaster and made the opening speech, in which he referred in complimentary terms to the past services of Mr. McAdie. Mr. W. L. Moore, chief of the bureau, followed.

He also read letters of regret sent by Secretary of Agriculture Morton, who foretold for Mr. McAdie's career, with constantly rising barometer, and Assistant Secretary Charles W. Dabney, Jr.

Short addresses were made also by Maj. H. C. Burrows, assistant chief of the bureau; Joseph R. Cook, chief clerk; Prof. Abbe and Bigelow, D. J. Carroll, assistant chief clerk; Henry E. Williams, chief clerk of the forecast division; M. H. Tasker, librarian; Dr. Phillips, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Louis Winter, Dr. T. M. Maring, S. A. Potter, A. Zappone, Col. Hughes East, and others.

Mr. McAdie responded in a very happy style.

Mr. McAdie left the city this morning for San Francisco, where he has been appointed assistant forecaster to Mr. W. H. Hammon, forecaster for the Pacific coast.

SUCCESS OF LABOR BUREAUS

Local Promoters Explain the Plan as Adopted Elsewhere.

Committee of Five Appointed to Push the Project and Interest Every Local Organization.

A meeting of the Labor Bureau and Workmen's Labor Union held last evening in the Times Building, President Sprague in the chair.

The first business transacted was the reception of the credentials of the delegates and representatives of the following additional organizations were permanently enrolled: Plate Printers, Bakers' Drivers' Assembly, Tin and Sheet Iron Workers, Carpenters' Union, No. 1, and Carpenters' Assembly, No. 1748.

A temporary representative of the Typographical Union was present for the purpose of learning of the specific aims and objects of the bureau.

It was resolved that a committee of five be appointed to visit those local organizations not familiar with the objects of the bureau, explain to them and request their co-operation. The report of the committee appointed to inquire into the advisability of selecting a certain building for the purposes of the bureau and library reported favorably.

Some interesting information was given in the report of the committee on statistics, which stated that through the courtesy of Acting Commissioner Weaver of the Department of Labor, communications, reports and answers received, telling of the success of labor bureaus in the following cities: Springfield, Ill.; Columbus, Ohio; San Francisco, Cal.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Austin, Tex.; Raleigh, N.C.; Augusta, Me.; Lansing, Mich.; Hartford, Conn.; St. Louis, Mo.; Denver, Col.; Boise City, Idaho; Helena, Mont.; Topeka, Kan.; and Indianapolis, Ind.

Particular attention was called to the Labor Bureau of Nantes, which was established in 1893, and where for ten years, male or female, out of employment, can register his name and have his desire for employment advertised. A man or woman with a business character cannot register and the bureau men regard the bureau as a good place to go when in need of an employer.

Information was also given regarding the Labor Bureau Exchange, which was instituted by the grand union of labor in November, 1892. It is established as a branch of the postal service and the postal establishments which participate in the labor exchange are: Post offices, post offices, twelve postal agencies, and fourteen relay stations.

The list of applications for work are publicly posted in these fifty-two bureaus and in 101 railway stations and 2,180 public houses. Orders and applications are addressed to the nearest postmaster, and the latter notifies the applicant by letter when an offer of employment is received for him. The services thus rendered are entirely free.

From all quarters the labor bureau has demonstrated its usefulness and will prove a complete success.

After the reading of the reports a general discussion followed, in which every delegate took part. The sentiment expressed was that a labor bureau in Washington would fill a long-felt want, and that the bureau and the sooner it is established the better.

There were present at the meeting, in addition to those named, representatives of the Ladies' Assembly, Paperhangers, Street Car Union, Engineers, Printing Pressmen, House Painters, Stonemasons, Bakers, and Excelsior Assembly.

A motion was adopted that the bureau meet two weeks from last night for the purpose of forming a permanent organization and the election of officers; also that all organizations already represented be notified of the meeting.

The Brotherhood of Carpenters, L. U. No. 190, held a well-attended meeting last evening at No. 627 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

The meeting was conducted by President O'Brien, and was devoted entirely to routine business.

A new member was initiated and two applications for membership were received.

Journeyman Plasterers, L. A. No. 1644, K. of L. met last night in regular session at Plasterers' Hall, corner Fourth and-half streets, and were addressed by President Jno. Fitzgerald in the chair.

After disposing of the regular business the "unfair list" was discussed at length. One new member was initiated.

LADIES OF THE G. A. R.

Return of Mrs. Florence George, the

Mrs. Florence C. George, national treasure of the Ladies of the G. A. R., returned on Saturday from Louisville, where she had been in attendance at the national convention. Mrs. George was honored with a reception to the position she has so satisfactorily filled during the past year.

Mrs. George was enthusiastic over the cordiality and entertainment the ladies of Louisville extended to the officers and delegates of the convention.

Reports of the present condition of the organization as it stands since the last convention are most gratifying. The order numbers about 20,000 members, with departments in seventeen States, besides many circles outside of departments. There has been expended for sick and disabled comrades, and financial aid given to Grand Army Posts $28,000.

During the encampment a committee of journalists made a collection of ladies' souvenir badges and awarded Mrs. George the honor of designing the handsomest badge taken to Louisville, being the badge of U. S. Grant circle of this city.

At the close of the convention Mrs. George made an extended trip to Illinois and Kansas visiting relatives and old friends.

TRYING TO RAISE FUNDS.

Rev. J. W. Gaines Conducting Services at Emmanuel Baptist Church.

At the request of Rev. James A. Taylor, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church, Garfield City, near Anacostia, the Rev. J. W. Gaines, pastor of Little Zion Baptist Church, Georgetown, conducted the services at Emmanuel Church on Sunday last.

It was a special service to raise funds to aid in completing the church, and as good music would induce a large congregation the choir of Little Zion was also invited to take part in the services.

The meeting was very successful and quite a large sum of money was collected. Rev. Mr. Gaines is now conducting a series of gospel meetings at his own church, and is desirous that the other ministers of the city would lend their aid at these meetings. He also wishes to acknowledge the receipt of $3 from Mount Zion M. E. Church, and the Purcell fund.

The Morning, Evening and Sunday Times delivered to your house cost you but 1-3 cents a day, or 50 cents a month.

Our Carpets are famous because they wear—they don't get shabby after a month or two—they wear for years—You need a new carpet—having them taken up and beaten. They won't fall to pieces.

We have many choice designs.

Horace J. Long & Co., Carpets, Wall Paper, Window Shades, 824 Thirteenth St. N. W.

PLEA FOR HOME INDUSTRY

School Cadet Uniforms Should Be Made in Washington.

Resolution Adopted That, if Possible, the Contract Be Given to Local Merchants—Night Schools to Open.

The school board at a special meeting yesterday afternoon recommended that the 600 uniforms of the High School Cadets be purchased in Washington if this can properly be done. They also voted that the annual school opening Monday, that school boards when covered, must be covered with Manila paper, they secured a special committee from their own number to determine questions in regard to the Teachers' Bazaar in November, and promoted a janitor.

The members present were President Whipple, Dr. Witmer, Dr. Hays, Dr. Shand, Messrs. Wilson, Board of Councils, Secretary Falk was at his desk and Superintendent Powell was in the room in the meeting was in progress.

The sentiment was unanimous in favor of the contract for the cadets' uniforms to go to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

President Whipple took about the same view, and wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

OPENING OF THE LAFAYETTE

Brilliant Audience Witnessed Miss Russell in "Tzigane."

Plays of the Week at the Other Theaters Are Good and the Houses Were Excellent.

It would be hard to say to just what may be ascribed the success which crowned the formal opening of the Lafayette Square Opera House last night. It was a combination of happy circumstances, the result of which should be very gratifying to Manager John W. Abington. The beautiful surroundings, the pleasing harmony of color and lights, had prepared the way for the charming actress and the excellent company which surrounds her, and it was an easy task to win the good graces of the house. He said to the credit of those behind the footlights, however, that this condition was not necessary. Too many successes have fallen to the career of Miss Russell for her to be influenced by extraneous surroundings, but she was assuredly at her best when she faced the fashionable throng, which from orchestra to the topmost gallery filled the building.

The opening performance of a special character. View from logs to logs, chatting groups in the wide aisles and lobby were the thing, and society just home from a mountain and resort, and good greetings and complimented the beautiful theater which is destined to see many more such gatherings.

Miss Russell has had prettier operas than "Tzigane." In fact, Mr. De Koven has penned sweeter scenes than this Russian conglomeration, but it is in a measure unusual, pleasing while it is not, and goes down as a success. In this last particular Messrs. Abbey, Schofield and Grant have maintained their reputation.

"Tzigane" is a Russian and there of lines you have heard before. There are snatches of melody that seem familiar, but through it all comes a weird, strange strain, which is distinctly Russian, and gives it its originality.

Some of the concerted numbers are splendid, particularly two which carry the refrain of the Russian national anthem and were splendidly rendered by the strong chorus.

Miss Russell's Vera is like Miss Russell's everything else. It is distinctively and peculiarly her own. Superbly dressed, thoroughly self-possessed, and fascinating, she possessed of all those qualities which have brought her to the front rank in light opera. Her voice is as of old. She probably does not take the libretto with it, but once done, but the opera calls for little which would require an effort.

The level of the opera is a sweet little story, the plot is a dream of a dream, and the music is a dream of a dream. It is "Love will come and love will go." It is very De Kovenesque and touched with the ballad-like of "Robin Hood." This, with the Russian music, makes a very good thing, as well sung by Mr. Edwin Hoff, are the best songs in "Tzigane."

Few of the other characters call for much notice. Emilia is a good one, and sang Maryska very pleasingly, and in her one solo received an encore.

Miss Marie Celeste's Ninetta was a cute and clever character, and gave a well-learned dog. Blackson and Burns did "Fannabullion" in a funny way.

Johnnie Carroll sang a number of popular ballads, and Mr. Frank Samson, as ever as Charles Wayne in their respective parts as Gen. Bugoslav and Varsik.

A motion was adopted that the bureau meet two weeks from last night for the purpose of forming a permanent organization and the election of officers; also that all organizations already represented be notified of the meeting.

The meeting was very successful and quite a large sum of money was collected. Rev. Mr. Gaines is now conducting a series of gospel meetings at his own church, and is desirous that the other ministers of the city would lend their aid at these meetings. He also wishes to acknowledge the receipt of $3 from Mount Zion M. E. Church, and the Purcell fund.

The Morning, Evening and Sunday Times delivered to your house cost you but 1-3 cents a day, or 50 cents a month.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school board had no power to control it.

Some of the members of the board, however, were in favor of the contract to a Washington contractor. The question came up on a motion by Major Harris, who wanted to direct the school authorities who award the contract to consider only Washington bids.

It was found, however, upon discussion, and after a short debate, that it was dangerous to recommend a contract to a Washington contractor, and it was added, looking around at the other physical cases on the board, "a doctor of dental surgery, of course." He said he was looking for a contractor to prepare the contract at home, but he thought the school